TRAINING COURSES

These courses include the essential introduction knowledge for the international regulatory framework of shipping and oil terminals. Participants will be informed about the Classification Rules and the important international and regional statutory regulations. The class and statutory surveys and certification system will be presented, and the Port State Control inspection regime will be presented together with illustrative findings from these inspections. In the final practical part, examples of effective monitoring of the ship status will be discussed through the digital presentations and reports.

Our team remains available to provide you with any further information you may need.
